Consumer Trends Report | Q3 2021
Introduction & Key Takeaways

Jungle Scout’s Consumer Trends Report is a quarterly study of 1,100 U.S. consumers which explores how spending behaviors and preferences change over time and due to current events. It tracks the types of products consumers are buying, how retail stores and sites are performing, and whether spending is increasing or decreasing online, in-store, and on Amazon and Walmart in particular.

This report focuses on consumers’ attitudes and behaviors over the third quarter (July through September) of 2021 with some comparison to previous quarters. It explores changes in ecommerce, brand activism, social media and influencer marketing and the emerging technology that impacts consumers’ day-to-day purchasing.

1. Consumers are increasingly adopting emerging ecommerce and other financial technologies.
   - Nearly half of all consumers (48%) prefer shopping from retailers that offer flexible payment options like “buy now, pay later,” cryptocurrency, etc. (an increase of 7% from last quarter). Additionally, 44% of consumers use deal-finding browser extensions or plug-ins (Honey, Pricescout, Amazon Assistant, etc.) when shopping online.
   - Consumers increasingly value being able to compare prices easily as they browse for products online. And on Amazon in particular, shoppers say the easy-to-use website and app are among the top reasons they shop there.

2. 40% of consumers search for products to buy while on social media.
   - The most influential social media platforms are Facebook, YouTube, Instagram and TikTok.
   - 1 in 4 consumers follow fashion or beauty influencers online.
   - More than half of consumers (56%) consider purchasing products that are recommended to them when shopping online.

3. Consumers are seeking greater accountability and transparency from brands.
   - 58% of consumers say a brand’s social activism impacts their impression of a brand — including whether they choose to buy from that brand.
   - 43% of consumers view brands more positively when they take a leading or active role in enacting social change; however, 15% of consumers view brand activism negatively.
   - More than half of all consumers say they would be more inclined to buy from brands or companies that treat their employees well, are transparent, and are locally sourced or eco-friendly.

4. Walmart dominates when it comes to in-store shopping, nearly catching up to Amazon and ecommerce.
   - Nearly as many shoppers (63%) have purchased from a Walmart store as have shopped online on Amazon (65%) in the past 3 months.
   - 56% of consumers say they choose to shop in stores as a way to get out of their homes and 54% can’t wait to get back to shopping in a physical store.
   - Walmart wins in-store shopping in categories like grocery, OTC medications, vitamins and supplements, cleaning supplies, beauty and personal care and pet supplies. These “essential” items may continue to experience high demand due to COVID-19.

Chapter 1

Q3 Insights: Consumer Preferences

Despite widespread reopening of businesses and public places, consumer behavior and attitudes are very different today compared to how they were prior to the COVID-19 pandemic.

In this chapter, consumers share how they’ve adjusted their lifestyles, day-to-day activities, and priorities. What is the current state of their employment and income? Is there a pent-up demand for travel now that it has been over a year since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic? Are consumers planning to spend more or less on upcoming events and holidays? Our findings reveal how consumers’ plans and sentiments are constantly evolving.
Employment and Income Changes During the Pandemic

How is the pandemic continuing to impact consumer employment and income? Compared to the previous quarter, consumers’ employment and income have shown little fluctuation. The majority of consumers’ employment situations and incomes have started the same.

Employment and income:

- 40% Student, retired, and other
- 47% Employed (full-time OR part-time)
- 7% Unemployed (NOT related to COVID-19)
- 7% Unemployed (lost work due to COVID-19 and its effects) / Furloughed
- 3% NA
- 16% Income lower in Q3
- 20% Income higher in Q3
- 61% Income the same

See Methodology for full demographic data.
Life in Fluctuation

As the COVID-19 crisis develops, people are responding and adapting in various ways. And even during disruptive times, many consumers indicate having made big life changes over the last year like switching jobs, adopting pets, or moving homes.

Lifestyle changes experienced in the last 12 months as a result of COVID-19 pandemic:

Brand Activism in 2021: Top Reasons Consumers Buy

In today’s political and social climate, consumers may feel that brands — some with massive followings, sophisticated communications strategies, and deep pockets — have a uniquely powerful influence on their audiences, which could lead them to drive change. Over the past year, some brands have made efforts to address social issues like racial equality, climate change, and gender-neutrality, among many others. The data below describes consumer reactions to brand activism.

How do consumers view social activism?

43% of consumers view brands more positively when they take a leading or active role in enacting social change; however, 15% of consumers view brand activism negatively.

Brand activism impact on consumer purchasing behavior or brand impression:

58% of consumers say a brand's social activism impacts their impression of a brand — including whether they choose to buy from that brand.
Consumers have a variety of preferences when it comes to selecting certain brands. The data below describes the overall reasons consumers would buy from a specific brand.

About the Report

Methodology
Between August 6-9, 2021, Jungle Scout conducted an anonymous survey among a panel of 1,100 U.S. consumers about their buying preferences and behaviors. Respondents represent every U.S. state, all genders, and ages 18 to 75+, as well as all employment types and varying income levels.

The survey asked certain questions about behaviors during the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, which is described as to have started in the U.S. in March 2020 for consistency among related responses.

Certain analysis also compares responses from this survey to the previous Consumer Trends Surveys, which have collected data on a quarterly basis starting in June 2020.

Q2 refers to the months of April through June 2021. Q3 refers to the months of July through September 2021.
